

ANY DREAM WILL DO

After much deliberation and many, many suggestions from students, Producer Jo-Anne Riley-Janzen, Musical Director Alain McCann, and Director Amy Axford, have decided to bring Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat to the LCVI stage. With the extensive talent bank we have here at LC, we knew we needed a show that would provide opportunities to showcase as many of our young performers as possible.

Joseph is the story of a young man living in the land of Canaan. When his father plays favourites by giving Joseph a fabulous multi-coloured coat, the remaining 11 siblings are infuriated. Joseph's siblings come up with a plan to get rid of their father's star child, but Joseph will not go quietly.

This is a show that combines comedy, adventure, and above all a fantastic musical score from the incomparable team of Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber. The endearing story reminds us to dream in full colour and to support one another in pursuit of those dreams.

Auditions will be held September 17th and 18th, with performances running through the week of November 24th.
